

Headlines for December

- On December 17th North Korea's leader, Kim Jong Il died at the age of 69 after ruling the isolated country for 17 years. His third and youngest son, Kim Jong -un, is his successor.
- On December 27th Iran threatened to close down the Strait of Hormuz, through which 40% of the world's oil passes, if the United States returns to the area. This disruption could cause a major short-term spike in oil prices.
- Twitter raised $200 mm in financing on December 15th, valuing the company at $3.7 billion, up from the $1.0 billion valuation it received during their September 2009 raise.

Things to watch for in January

- With growing uncertainty and impatience with Iran's actions, increasing fears about a short term disruption in oil production, potentially causing oil prices to rise.
- Heated discussion regarding the Keystone XL pipeline, led by TransCanada, as well as the impact of its deferral.
- More news to support optimism about job growth with the announcement of 150,000 jobs added during December.
- Increasing pace in the Republican Party nomination contest, with Romney, Gingrich, Paul and Santorum still in the running.

Investment Banking Terminology:

Break-Up (Termination) Fee – A penalty fee that is established after a bid is initially accepted in larger acquisitions. Usually 1% - 3% of the transaction size, the fee is intended to deter other bids as well as cover costs in the event the deal isn't completed.
